KALAMUNDA DISTRICTS BRIDGE CLUB NEWS

EDITORIAL.

'The Party's Over' as the Seekers sing and that goes for ours too which is sad to say because we shall have to wait another 12 months for the next. What a marvellous time we had and thanks must be recorded in B.T.G. to the organiser Audrey Townsend. Well done Audrey. It was a party to be remembered and it's success was due to your organising ability and sheer hard work. We must add a 'sorry' to those who couldn't make the date for some reason or another and we hope that they in particular will be able to come next year.

The party was not only well run but it made a profit too and that takes a lot of 'doing' these days with rising prices. We had good food and fare and of course some fun bridge organised by Peter Hart who I think was surprised that no one wanted to play serious stuff. Mind you the competition was just as fierce and at one table I partnered Margaret Ferguson who had left her glasses at home and we had to read the bidding slip to her! She played an absolute blinder in 6 Spades and gave us a maximum score! The trickery was to be had at each and every table but winners for the night were Jan Burgess (groans from the Editor) and John Bartley. The booby prize, a book entitled "Bridge for those who cannot tell one card from another" was won by John Ashworth who must have really studied it hard since, as he since won a Championship at State level!

We were delighted to have many guests who accepted our invitations to come to the party and these were headed by Cr. Cec. Wright and his wife Eve. Cec assisted Peter Hart in presenting the trophies for the year but this was overshadowed by Eve picking the winning ticket for the raffle which went to Connie McCullough who as you can well imagine was a most popular winner of a bulging hamper.

The other two prizes were won by outsiders and the results published in the "West". Well it all happens at the Kalamunda Bridge Club and after cleaning up your Committee fell into bed at 3.00 a.m.

NEW PLAYERS.

A special welcome to the Chapmans who played at the club for the first time last Wednesday. We hope you both enjoyed the games and the company and we all note that your first score was very creditable.

GOSNELLS AND CANNING DISTRICTS.

Both clubs invited players to their social evenings and there was an excellent support given by K.D.B.C. They have followed K.D.B.C.'s lead in fun bridge and by accounts went a little further. At one board the contractees having bid to the limit then had to pass their three highest cards onto their opponents - that just isn't cricket! However despite all the trickery which our club members are obviously used to, our lads and lasses won most of the prizes!

Bo Wathen won first prize in the raffle - another hamper and the Harts won the third prize - a bottle of wine. Bo won a spot prize and Peter Hart won yet another bottle of wine for being the player nearest to 0 !

Someone was actually at the top with +8000 would you believe?
